100-plus sex activists in bed with Christy Clark and her Cabinet?

Perverting Democracy 101!

May 4, 2017 (CultureGuard) — BC Premier Christy Clark, unbeknownst to the majority of British Columbians, invited Liberal and NDP MLAs to a political gangbang on July 25, 2016 with 100 or so sex activists—and secretly screwed parents and other sensible citizens without their knowledge.

“ ‘Pay for access’ has been taken to a new depth,” says family rights advocate Kari Simpson.

Apparently, it takes just over 200 thousand sexual anarchist dollars—all from one guy—to suck our premier into educationally abusing BC children.

Premier Clark says she’s opposed to bullying; but being an anti-democratic thug, who supports the abuse of children by subjecting them to a dangerous psychological experiment via the education system, seems to be OK by the Premier.

There was no advance notice—at least, not to the general public—about the July 25, 2016 surprise mid-summer first reading (and second and third—all on one day!) of Bill 27 to amend the BC Human Rights Act; yet somehow 100+ sex activists had poured into the public gallery of the Legislature to watch Bill 27 rammed through into law—all in one day!

The amendment to the already controversial BC Human Rights Code now includes whatever I want my “gender identity” to be on any given day. The people of BC were not invited to this party. They only get to pay the bills. And there’ll be many!

Our gullible Attorney General, Suzanne Anton, introduced the Bill, and it was on a fast track thereafter, receiving first, second, the façade of a committee hearing, and third reading—all in a matter of hours.

Less than two months later, Education Minister Mike Bernier announced the introduction of a mandatory code of conduct that leads to indoctrinating all students into sex activism, under the guise of anti-bullying.

The question inquiring taxpayers want to know is: how did they do all this?

How did a man named Quartermain and his “Arc Foundation” turbo-lobby the Ministry of Education into a “partnership” to implement a curriculum that is so destructive and dangerous to children? It amounts to a vast social experiment in which parents have no say.

‘Arc Foundation’ seems to take its name from arc en ciel—French for ‘rainbow’, which apparently is intended to mask their real agenda: mandatory acceptance and even celebration of homosexuality, transgenderism and mass confusion in the public schools... and at the BC Legislature, which now flies the LGBTQ++ ‘rainbow’ flag.

SOGI—which stands for “Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity”—is being foisted upon the children of BC by Pretivm Resource mining executive Robert Quartermain and a sex activist team that includes Steve Mulligan, a sex activist and former Vancouver School Board employee who is also a director for the Queer Film Festival’s so-called ‘charity organization’, Out on Screens.

There is no record of Mr. Quartermain or his “ARC Foundation” activists being registered as lobbyists. There is no record of representatives from the OUT ON SCREENS Society and their “education” program, OUT IN SCHOOLS, being registered as lobbyists, despite holding a luncheon for elected officials.

Out in Schools has been sold to the Ministry of Education and local school boards as an “anti-bullying” program. The term “anti-bullying” is used to deceive parents. In an interview with SFU Student Radio, Out in Schools Executive Director Ross Johnstone said the guerrilla marketing strategy by OiS was established “to increase youth attendance at the annual Queer Film Festival.”

OiS ran contests for students to create anti-bullying videos. The prizes were awarded at the QFF, in conjunction with the showing of porn films the students were too young to attend. But they got to see the lurid posters in the foyer and lots of gay porn in the party room where they were invited to play “games”—like a drinking game called Lesbian Debauchery, and a board parody of the Periodic Table of the Elements, called the Queeriodic Table, with ‘elements’ like ‘R for Rimming’ and ‘GH for glory hole’.

It’s an offense in BC to lobby government officials without registering. Did Premier Christy Clark conspire with these activists to dupe and deceive the people of BC? Did access money wilfully blind and gag her from informing parents about who she was forcing the children and youth of BC into bed with? Did she fail to see whether these so-called ‘charities’ were lawfully reporting their political activities to the Canada Revenue Agency?

It seems Christy Clark has forgotten why the Liberal party got elected in 2001.

Beginning in 1997, the then-governing NDP began their intrusive anti-family sex agenda into our schools and the minds of our children. That was why parents and concerned citizens rose up and sent the NDP packing, obliterating them politically by reducing them to only two seats out of 75.

Clearly the time has come to galvanize our political voice, vote and values once again. And while it might be too late to disrupt the political apple cart for this election, that won’t be the case for the next one, says Kari Simpson.
